

APOSTASY

4-1-15

Wednesday

Those privileged to reside in our great nation are imputed a reasonable and prerequisite expectation of liberty. We look to God for faith and hope. We look to our government for justice.

Judgment and Justice do not share the same bed; though they frequently work together and are often seen in each others company. In the minds of babes, the seeds of Justice are planted; along with directions on where and how to find it. In this country as children, we grow and learn our government gives the comfort of order and justice; even in the most chaotic of circumstances.

When a child is molested by a trusted family member the wound gouges out more than flesh and blood, but also pieces of spirit and soul that vaporize when exposed to the caustic atmosphere of deceit and betrayal. The body, scarred, still may heal. But the spirit is lost; the soul, stolen.

When those entrusted to protect us seek to destroy us; to awaken and find whom our thought protector as slayer; brings apostasy.
