Cops have it: you can't get by with faith alone. They follow a system, a system that tries to suppress or rehabilitate everyone, everyone who is under the systems direction.

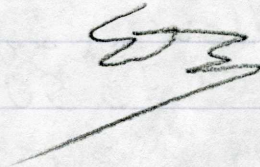

But where do cops and criminals come together you may ask. It is their nature which speaks the tongues of olden days long forgotten and withering away in prisons and mental hospitals. The same language tribes, oracles, omens, and priests spoke.

Who am I, I needed to see why I asked myself that. To remain myself of course. I struggle to find words to show you the meta-mathematical point in time my head is in. The struggle is real. I find a hardship an opportunity to give back to the meta-universe I know is the ultimate apex system who sometimes is god forsaken.

Help yourself to my advice by showing love when it's chosen for you in order to connect yourself to the system.

See for yourself,

P.S. God's realm leaks
beware.
