Hatred is destruction, and somehow is, in life inevitable. Those pieces I somehow grasped hold me together and somehow sustain this World in tangent harmony. As people we are vulnerable to others and if we develop dreams to set us apart from anyone we will find magic. Look with one look alone and begin to expound that view. To experience conscious perception is a beauty meant for the Angels of life. Hatred is inevitable you will find it when you are ready don't allow others to victimize you because of it. Shape your self as water does without forgetting your human as teach your self destruction fulfills magic. Be Venerable while waiting to attack. Stop, look, listen, and observe we exist in a ~~haste~~ hamster-eye-destiny illusion. Break a piece off your blessings to those who need redemption.
