

The pain behind a woman's eyes

2-14-20

Females are rather distinguished from males, their features are promoted to be more prominent, their lifestyle is rather influenced, and their mind is more reflective and prominent in their lifestyle. Therefore we have much to learn from females, where there is pollution of one kind we learn to compare to the unpolluted kind. I always thought women were hard to understand; they seem to play games and toy with people and have secrets. I had a mental breakdown. A mental breakdown of the constitutes of unpleasant truths, namely the truth surrounding mental illness. Mental illness is hard to describe without actually submitting to the probability you will sound crazy, but if you garden it right you break barriers to studies of mysticism and the occult. Mental illness makes the world go round it is the biggest background that defines skill and magical principles that underline life. Females are notorious to make decisions to use people, climb a ladder of success that comes with a cold heart, and strong desires or emotions. Women think a lot and this brings them closer to the states that envelope society, which are probably the reason behind the development of society, to win even it takes your innocence good will and means you now are running with the devil. Ignorance is called a bliss because it shelters you only until you lose your innocence and the world becomes scary and turns on you at the age of 18, the number that dictates your life according to the mystic developments of civilization. Ignorance is infinite and so is its counterpart revelation its fundamentally aspect of every life and the mystical life on earth.

Females there for suffer the extremes, because they are chosen to carry out the pain that keeps the world on its axis. They suffer much more than a man in the pursuit of innocence because of the pure exponential difference in the numbers of innocent people vs the defiled females that fall under the pressure to choose evil over good the latter is more prevalent. The difference may mean more body physical development, or a nicer life but the difference is in favor of the good who is always noticed yet not always mentored, and who is able to willingly accept the out comes of their life in the long run happily. So chase to preserve your innocence so you don't make the mistake to live a life of something that wasn't made for you. Fight for your inner freedom, Amen.
