

TO SAY GOODBYE TO MAYBE

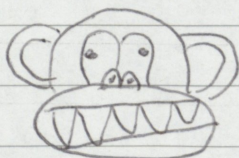

To say goodbye to maybe
To shed a tear for why
I can't give up on crazy
I refuse to even try
So return to me in silence
Your thoughts live always shared
I go again unto that place
Where once we used to care
Avarice meanders slowly
Capricious in its lust
I'm lost again in folly
Searching for that misplaced trust
If I ever get to handle
Something precious as before
I'll try hard to respect it
And to cherish all the more
So venture once again with me
That thought to which I cling
I'll never be apart from you
My hope, my peace, my joy

an original poem
by me

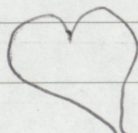

Brian Fuller

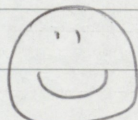

PEACE

MONKEY

LOVE

HAPPY