

"INCONSISTANT CORRECTIONS"

THE Problem with any Department of Corrections is that of inconsistency. What I mean is this: one day the Doc Staff and in my case the (Arizona Department of Corrections) will tell inmates to do something a specific way. The very next day, or even later we will get in trouble because now it's this way!

Anyone who has been in Prison or Jail knows exactly what I'm talking about. But wait. So were all here to be "corrected" if I'm not mistaken. Which I'm fine with, but the inconsistency is not good. When one gets ready to be released back in to the world, many will have Probation or Parole. Inconsistency in this aspect is no good. Especially if your supposed to change your thinking pattern. How if you were given 15 - 20 - 25 or more years of continuous inconsistency. It's impossible hence the return of many to Prison because of the lack of ~~day~~ diligence of the people who were ordered to correct/change our "Bad habits".

Another prime example is M<sup>c</sup>Donalds. All M<sup>c</sup>Donalds have the exact same menu. But if you go to a M<sup>c</sup>Donalds in China, or a M<sup>c</sup>Donalds in Tucson Arizona, the procedure is exactly the same why? CONSISTANCY! Absolutely No Prison System in the United States have this. This is my 21st year in the system and I have two to go. I still have not found the consistency that I need to prepare myself for the streets. That's scary. The Government is responsible at the end of the day. Why. Because they are in charge.

Sincerely,

Lost and Hopeless. in Arizona.
