Part 1. Gary Cooper the Great.

Words can't express enough about the clandestine evolution of the Maryland penal system. The draconian Medieval tactics still exist however just on a more subtle & ~~suff~~ surreptitious way.

In order for a system of atrocities to endure it must first change its countenance by evolving its methods setting the stage & standards of the social order & interactions between the two primary opposing factions. Inmates & officers creating a us against them environment.

The facts are in the lack thereof of any rehabilitational groups and the constant proclaiming of inmate subservience to not the law & order but to the people each individual man & woman behind the badge.

Every facet of prison institutional functioning is all punitive when its applied to any updating social interactions from the institution to the inmates.

Why is that because prison is not about the inmate its about the correctional officers who throw puerile connotations when a inmate doesn't respect them as a person absent a authority figure. In order for true reform to transpire there must first be acknowledgement of the two opposing factions inmates & officers. In the words of my dearest brother Chris-X because ^{for} true healing to begin there must be reconciliation.

Instead of strategies & stratagems being applied by both sides of who can disadvantage & inconvenience each other likes the most. VS. how can one co-exist with ones enemys. People must or should possess a sense of humanity first.
